Subject: Unidentified Flying Objects/Radar

Dear Section 40 [redacted]

I am writing in relation to an article/s which we have just recently researched in the October, 1954 edition of the London Dispatch (Sunday).

THE ARTICLE:

"Radar installations in Great Britain had repeatedly picked up whole formations of unidentified flying objects during september 1954, some of them passing overhead at low altitude. Military Personnel scrambled outside their offices to take a look and were much puzzled to find the skies clear and empty. Every time, they have followed the same pattern, always around Mid-day. All our radar sets in the area have picked them up. Some of the public individuals involved with Flying Saucer research/reports at that time, were told that Flying Saucers are normally invisible to us".

We are very interested in these official statements; could you please confirm these comments, especially as the radar installations now in operation, such as Fylingdales (which can track an object the size of a tea tray above Moscow) are far more technologically advanced, than of those in the 1950's? As a research organisation, we have numerous reports of UFOs, surely in range of civil and military radar never being seen as a physical structure throughout the entire observation (one second visible, the next completely invisible). There does appear to be some evidence to substantiate many of the claims made by the War Office in 1954.
